Bloodlines Film Trailer Release

CHICAGO, IL – May 16, 2018

(Waterfront Productions) – Since 2004, Vincent Castiglia has been painting surreal images in his own blood. His images examine life, death, and the human condition. A feature documentary film titled Bloodlines: The Art and Life of Vincent Castiglia has been completed by filmmaker John Borowski (H.H. Holmes: America's First Serial Killer).

The official film trailer can be viewed here: <https://youtu.be/PcXeZzj3vVk>

The reasons why Castiglia began painting in blood are explored in this emotional rollercoaster ride portrayed on film. Borowski stated, "This is a deeply personal film for Vincent and I am honored to have worked closely with him on the film. I feel many people will see this film as inspirational, even though it is a dark ride through pain and suffering. Vincent's life journey, much like his art, reflects both the dark and ultimately the light that shines through the darkness."

Margaret Cho, who commissioned Castiglia to paint her portrait in her blood, is interviewed in the film as well as celebrities Gregg Allman, Damien Echols, Kerry King & Gary Holt of the heavy metal band Slayer, Randy Blythe of the band Lamb of God, and record executive Michael Alago, among others.

After a successful Kickstarter fundraising campaign, production of the film spanned from 2014 to 2017, filming on location in the United States: New York City, Los Angeles, Louisiana, Chicago, Oregon, and internationally: Singapore and Switzerland, where Borowski was honored to film in the Switzerland studio and museum of legendary artist H.R. Giger, who designed the iconic creature for the 20th Century Fox movie, Alien.

Borowski is currently seeking U.S. and International distribution for Bloodlines. For more information, check out the film website: <https://bloodlinesdocumentary.com/>
